CLAMPKO PRODUCTS RELEASES NEW, EXPANDED CATALOG

Wadsworth, OH (November 2006) -- Clampco Products, Inc., a Wadsworth, Ohio, based manufacturer of stainless steel band clamps and couplings, has released a new 36-page catalog featuring its main product lines, including its recently acquired worm gear clamp line.

The new product literature offers more detailed information regarding the design and installation of custom T-bolt clamps and V-band couplings, such as expanded hardware charts and installation torque charts. Updated product photography shows the wide variety of custom design options that are available in a user friendly way. The catalog also includes extensive product information about Clampco's barrel hardware clamps, marine grade clamps, military MS21920 clamps, worm gear clamps, straps, and flanges.

The new product catalog is available in both print and electronic format. Contact Clampco Products for a copy of the updated literature, or download a copy from the company's website at www.clampco.com.
